#1 PSA....

You can enjoy reading even if you can't hold a book or see print. "Talking Books" is a free public library service for people of all ages who are unable to read print material due to a visual or physical limitation or a learning disability. Call your public library now to learn how you can enroll in the Talking Book program and receive Talking Books. Or call the Great Lakes Talking Books Center at (800) 562-8985.

#2 PSA....

Never Stop Reading...

Have you been a reader all your life, but a recent permanent or temporary physical condition interferes with your enjoyment of reading? Don't let a physical limitation stop you from reading!

"Talking Books" is a free public library service for people of all ages. Talking Books are loaned free to any resident who is unable to read regular print, hold a book, or turn pages due to a temporary or permanent physical limitation.

Call your public library today for more information and a Talking Books service application. Or, call the Great Lakes Talking Books Center at (800) 562-8985.

This free service provides the following to eligible and registered users:

- Over 75,000 free audiobooks and free playback equipment
- Materials mailed directly to and from the user via Free Matter for the Blind
- Toll free number to contact the Talking Book Service
- Reader Advisors who help select titles of interest
- Ability to download digital titles with no waiting for the mail
